International Accreditation
Clinics and Hospital Services

European accreditation of health care institutions

For years, hospitals and clinics have decided to improve the quality of patient care. To this end, some have already implemented a series of internationally recognized good practices within their establishments, with the help of international accreditation bodies. They are now accredited.

These standards, grouped together in guides, will list good practices in different areas such as: governance, management of the institution, management of medicines, prevention of infectious diseases, but above all the quality of patient care, both human and medical. EuroMedi International's experts also advise states on the implementation of national accreditation solutions.

The benefits of accreditation

Accreditation only makes sense if it brings benefits to patients, teams and the institution itself. A recent study has shown the benefits of accreditation<sup>1</sup>.

This accreditation allows :

- ◆ Reduce costs and increase overall efficiency
- ◆ Improve care management
- ◆ Attracting new patients
- ◆ Attracting qualified personnel
- ◆ Show your excellence to the control authorities
- ◆ Increase your visibility and your notoriety
- ◆ Become a reference in your industry
- ◆ Increase your income

But perhaps most importantly, 94% of the institutions have been able to achieve this, accreditation has given them an additional notoriety that has allowed them to differentiate themselves from other establishments in their sector.

Increased awareness

Above all, this means that future patients will prefer accredited establishments because they will be reassured about the quality of the care and treatment.

Testimonials :

- ◆ 'We have increased our number of patients by 25%. We expect to see more in the future.'
- ◆ 'Our clinic has become more reputable and reliable.'
- ◆ 'Our institution has sought a competitive advantage through an approach that we can now display.'
- ◆ 'Thanks to accreditation, there is a long-term financial impact as a result of the improvement of costs related to malfunctions and on the improvement of the quality of care.'

A digital solution :

For obvious reasons of ease, the guides will be in a digital format to facilitate the life of the teams during the accreditation process.

Who is EuroMedi International ?

EuroMedi International is a European organization with an international vocation created by doctors and management specialists. They have previously worked in various other international accreditation bodies. They know the strengths and weaknesses. They only kept the former and took into account the European specificities, but also the countries bordering Europe, which have a large potential and also want to have their competences recognized.

EuroMedi International's mission is to provide access to quality health care for all individuals, regardless of their income, origin or status. To achieve this, we rely on the founding values of humanity, independence, scientific rigor, transparency and partnership.

An independent Scientific Committee, composed of health professionals from different countries, uses the most up-to-date scientific data, and more particularly internationally recognized good practices, to inform EuroMedi International's experts in the drafting of guidelines that serve as a reference for the accreditation process.

EuroMedi accredits the following activities :

- multidisciplinary hospitals and clinics
- specialized clinics
- nursing homes
- revalidation centers
- health training centers...

It has also developed a specific accreditation for the reception of international patients.
